SUMMARY

I'm a full-stack software developer with experience in working collaboratively and creatively to solve real-world problems within remote, cross-functional, technical, and agile teams. A keen curiosity in maths, physics, and problem-solving bore a real passion for the world of innovation within me. Furthermore, the added flexibility of utilising my skills to exercise my entrepreneurial spirit and bring about real impact and change through tech; propelled me to embark on a role as a developer.

THE SCHOOL OF CODE

During the boot camp, I learnt how to become a collaborative, creative problem solver and a full-stack developer. I worked on two main projects where I collaborated in agile teams, implementing agile principles throughout the SDLC. We worked in short iterative sprints, completing daily tickets and delivering working software every few days. We created user personas and stories, wire-framing, story-pointing, post-mortems, daily stand-ups, pair/mob programming, sprint reviews and retrospectives. We also used various tools for project management such as GitHub, Trello, Jira and Confluence.

PROJECTS

Calculate

🔗 <https://ismailyma.github.io/calculator/>

I used my skills and knowledge in HTML, CSS and Javascript to create a calculator web app. The app is fully responsive and adjusts to all screen sizes.
